

Daniel Summers, Jr., the Center's Marketing Director, holds a B.A. in Theatre Studies from Guilford College in Greensboro, NC and an M.A. in Art Administration and Cultural Policy from Goldsmiths College University of London, where his M.A. thesis was Electronic Marketing within UK Performing Arts Organisations: What's Available and What Works. On stage since he was four years old, Summers was primarily an actor until he completed his undergraduate studies and began his career in theater management. While completing his master's degree, Summers worked in the United Kingdom with LIFT (the London International Festival of Theatre). After returning to the United States, he worked as a freelance art administration and marketing consultant. Before joining the Center in 2008, he was the Marketing Director at Actor's Express Theatre. Summers sings with the Atlanta Gay Men's Chorus, where he also represents its Membership as the organization's Social Chair.
