

Kristin Jarvis is currently the Associate Producer. At the Center she has produced three seasons and in 2009 assisted with “Puppets Take Atlanta and Beyond,” a city-wide puppet festival held in conjunction with the Puppeteers of American National Festival. Kristin has produced silhouette and cut-out animations for the Center’s “Duke Ellington’s Cat,” “The Ghastly Dreadfuls” and “Xperimental Puppetry Theater.” Other theater credits include film and puppet design for Georgia Shakespeare, Haverly Marionettes, and the McCarter Theater, and performance for Theater Emory. Prior to joining the Center, she performed throughout the Northwest with Tears of Joy Theatre based in Portland, OR. Kristin has studied in Bali, Indonesia, and the Czech Republic and holds a B.A. from Sarah Lawrence College where she studied puppetry, film, and cultural anthropology.
